The $5,000 Wedding by A Grand Wedding.com

SEATTLE, WA – What can you get for $27,000? A car, a couple years of college tuition—or you could have a wedding. With the average cost of weddings on the rise, couples are rethinking what ‘getting married’ means: a lifelong commitment to someone you love ...or one humungous party.

A Grand Wedding (www.agrandwedding.com) is the only wedding web site featuring vendors with a quality service or product priced at $1,000 or less. And holding true to their tag line, A Grand Wedding has put together three sample weddings, all with a price tag of just $5,000.

“Having an elegant, memorable wedding for \$5,000 is a huge accomplishment,” says Georgie Hockett, co-founder and Original Bride of A Grand Wedding. “Of course, there are compromises—a smaller guest list, choosing one thing over another—but these three sample weddings can give couples an idea of what they can have for $5,000; from a classy, downtown Seattle wedding to a tented ceremony in mom’s backyard.”

Wedding professionals used in the three ‘$5,000 weddings’ all have a service beginning at the $1,000 price point. “A bride who thinks she may not be able to afford an award-winning photographer or high-end caterer can find one on A Grand Wedding because we’ve found them for her,” explains Hockett. “Some offers are exclusive deals only available through A Grand Wedding...we’ve negotiated with high-end professionals to create a petite package—fewer hours, taking out some of the frills—so it really opens the door to brides who want enough money for a wedding...and a honeymoon, a house...essentially, a life.”
